“ Overall, Blue Diamond Security's extensive clientele and diverse range of services demonstrate their proficiency in providing tailor-made security solutions across various industries, encompassing both high-profile events and ongoing security needs.

About Us.

Introduction

Blue Diamond Security has a strong track record in providing comprehensive security services to various industries. Since its establishment in 2006, the company initially focused on offering a bespoke security solution for a London Art Gallery. However, it has since expanded its scope and successfully ventured into the Television and Film Productions industry.

Blue Diamond Security has had the privilege of working on notable productions including The Voice, X Factor, and Britain's Got Talent, providing security services on location. The company has collaborated with numerous production companies, working on a diverse range of projects such as TV shows, infomercials, and music videos.

Aside from the entertainment industry, Blue Diamond Security has also been entrusted with managing security for esteemed brands including Burberry, Belstaff, Hermès, Dunhill, Alexander McQueen, and more. Collaborations with high-profile events such as the Elle Style Awards, Moët and Chandon, The British Comedy Awards, and the Serpentine Gallery Summer Party further demonstrate the company's reputation and capabilities. Due to active nondisclosure agreements (NDAs), some clients cannot be disclosed.

The company are specialists in providing mobile security escort services for high-tech goods, pharmaceuticals, tobacco, and high-value products coming from China and the US into Europe and the UK. With an impressive track record of nearly 4500 security escorts over the past decade, Blue Diamond Security exhibits its expertise and reliability in this field.

The fashion industry is another sector where Blue Diamond Security excels. Working closely with one of the largest British fashion houses, the company supplies up to 150 security personnel during London's Fashion Weeks.

Our services extend beyond event security to include providing security personnel for the fashion house's headquarters, flagship retail outlets, control rooms, and shop floors throughout London.

Additionally, the company offers static security officers for manufacturing sites and locations undergoing refurbishment across the UK. Blue Diamond Security also ensures the safety of fashion shoots in the UK and Europe, while providing essential close protection and transportation services for visiting celebrities and models.

In addition to the previously mentioned industries, Blue Diamond Security also collaborates with a major record label, providing security services for their artists and events on an as-needed basis. This partnership ensures the safety and protection of the label's talent and ensures smooth and secure execution of events.

Blue Diamond Security maintains a strong relationship with another well-known retail company, where they are responsible for providing security at the company's flagship store in London.

The company also takes charge of enhancing security measures during numerous new product launches. Additionally, Blue Diamond Security offers relief officers across the UK to cover for staff illnesses and for overnight works at the retail sites of this particular company.

Another significant client of Blue Diamond Security is a company that specializes in presentations and marketing for HS2. We supply Close Protection Officers, traffic management personnel, and medical staff for presentations held across the UK. Since 2023, Blue Diamond Security has also commenced providing similar staff for Thames Water on a nationwide basis as well as the Atomic Weapons Establishment (AWE).

An exceptional project undertaken by Blue Diamond Security in 2022 involved a six-month initiative where they successfully provided security for the launch of a new vehicle for one of Britain's most iconic car brands. Notably, this project achieved the remarkable feat of preventing any pre-launch leaks of the new model to the press, ensuring the confidentiality and anticipation surrounding the vehicle's unveiling.

Management.

RICHARD KENDALL-TOBIAS

MANAGING DIRECTOR
(SIA CLOSE PROTECTION)

Richard Kendall-Tobias is a seasoned security professional with a distinguished military background spanning 22 years. Throughout his extensive service, Richard operated in global operational theatres and has held notable positions, including two years as a communications instructor at The Royal Military Academy Sandhurst and roles within military intelligence.

Upon retiring from the Army in 2005, Richard transitioned to the private security sector, initially working as a bodyguard for Middle Eastern royal families and high-profile celebrities. In 2007, he founded Blue Diamond Security, where he rapidly expanded the business from a small startup to a thriving enterprise with an annual turnover exceeding £2.5 million. Blue Diamond Security has garnered an impressive clientele, including FTSE 100 companies, music and television production firms, tech companies, media and marketing agencies, event production companies, and numerous high-net-worth individuals.

Richard remains actively involved in managing large security projects from inception to completion and is dedicated to his professional development. He is not only a self-defence instructor but also a Home Office Restraint and Arrest Instructor, having trained both military personnel and private clients in essential security skills. His commitment to safety and security continues to drive the success of Blue Diamond Security.

SIMON ELLSMORE

OPERATIONS DIRECTOR (SIA CLOSE PROTECTION)

Simon has a career in security starting from when he left school. He started working as a security guard and worked up through different companies and then found himself a position working for the Football Association providing security for the England national side when they were playing together.

He was moved from general security duties to acting as a bodyguard for team members on a regular basis at the same time started managing large security teams looking after visiting Middle Eastern Royal families. When he was not eating with clients at the Dorchester he worked as a specialist trouble shooter for large nightclubs in London that were suffering security and drug related problems.

Simon has also worked and managed security and large teams looking after backstage areas and artists performing at some of the UK's largest festivals.

In 2009 Simon started working for Richard and Blue Diamond Security as a Team Leader on shows such as the X Factor and Britain's Got Talent.

Now a company director, Simon manages his own Blue Diamond Security projects such as security for talent working on Large Fashion Shows, Brand Protection Projects in the UK and Europe, The Voice and The Voice Kid's and works alongside Richard on all large projects.

Simon is the main point of contact for all operations and handles all bookings and personally project manages the security for all shows and photoshoots throughout the UK and Europe.

Simon is also a CPO and acts as PPO for celebrities and some of our client's directors and board members during events and fashion show abroad.

Simon is also a qualified Security and First Aid Trainer and Assessor.
